

Housing Overview

First published: 21 September 2016 (version 1)

Updated: 12 October 2016 (version 2)

Definition of Rent
Bereavement run-on
Contrived Tenancies
Discretionary Housing Payments
Joint and untidy tenancies
Mortgages and Support for Mortgage Interest
Non-dependants
Paying for two homes
Prisoners
Private Rented Sector
Removal of Spare Room Subsidy
Service Charges
Shared ownership
Social Rented Sector
Temporary Accommodation
Under 35 rules
Use and Occupation agreement
Associated housing guidance

Definition of Rent

Rent payments can be defined to be any of the following:

- payments of rent
- payments for a licence or other permission to occupy accommodation
- mooring charges payable for a houseboat
- in relation to accommodation which is a caravan or mobile home, payments in respect of the site on which the accommodation stands;
- contributions by residents towards maintaining alms-houses, and essential services in them provided by a housing association which is either a registered charity, or an exempt charity within Schedule 3 to the Charities Act 2011

Bereavement run-on

A benefit unit's maximum award is maintained for the assessment period in which a death occurs and the following two assessment periods. This provides a grace period following a death for the housing cost which may reduce the maximum award for example, the Removal of the spare room subsidy.

See Death and bereavement

Contrived Tenancies

If a tenancy is declared by a decision maker to be 'contrived' the benefit unit is treated as not liable for rent. Contrivance can be on the part of the claimant, landlord or both. A valid reason for believing the tenancy is contrived must exist before referring to a decision maker.

For more information, see Contrived tenancies

Discretionary Housing Payments

Local authorities have discretion to make monetary awards to claimants facing financial difficulty meeting their housing costs. Certain charges and costs are not covered. For more information, see Discretionary Housing Payments

Joint and untidy tenancies

A joint tenancy is one where more than one person is liable for the rent. Tenants with separate rental agreements are not classed as joint tenants. If a joint tenant leaves the property and stops paying rent, but the landlord cannot remove them, it is classed as untidy. For more information, see Joint tenancies

Mortgages and Support for Mortgage Interest

The Universal Credit award includes an amount in recognition of the eligible housing costs the benefit unit has to pay. For owner-occupiers, the amount is determined by reference to the amount of outstanding mortgage or loans secured on their home.

Support for Mortgage Interest is subject to a waiting period of 39 weeks and capital limits. It is usually paid direct to the lender and is monthly in arrears.

For more information, see Mortgages

Non-dependants

The extended benefit unit in Universal Credit may include some non-dependants in calculating the number of rooms required. There are exemptions to which non-dependants are included in the housing cost contribution. Special circumstances exist for those renting in the Social Rented Sector.

For more information, see Non-dependants

Paying for two homes

Universal Credit can be paid on 2 homes where:

- adaptations are required due to a disability
- a fear of violence exists
- large families housed in two homes
- a claimant is moving from hospital or a care home

For more information, see Paying for two homes

Prisoners

Single person prisoners can retain entitlement to housing costs if they were already in receipt of Universal Credit with housing costs immediately before becoming a prisoner and are in prison for no longer than 6 months.

If they are in prison for more than 6 months no housing costs will be payable from the outset of their prison sentence.

If one member of a couple is temporarily or permanently absent from the household due to being in custody or prison, they stop be treated as part of a couple claim. The remaining eligible adult must make a single claim to continue to receive Universal credit.

If a couple claim exists, the prisoner is still included as part of the benefit unit for room allocation purposes

Private Rented Sector

The Private Rented Sector housing process is detailed in 'annexe A' of the guidance. For more information, see Private Rented Sector – at a glance

Removal of Spare Room Subsidy

Claimants in the social rented sector have their full rent and eligible service charges paid as part of the housing calculation, unless under-occupation applies. Room allocation and room entitlement conditions apply.

For more information, see Removal of Spare Room Subsidy

Service Charges

Service charges are treated differently depending upon the claimant's rental sector or if a property is owned. Claimants in the private rented sector have service charges included but housing costs are limited to the relevant Local Housing Allowance.

Categories of service charges are defined for the social rented sector and owner-occupiers. Certain costs are not included

For more information, see Service charges

Shared ownership

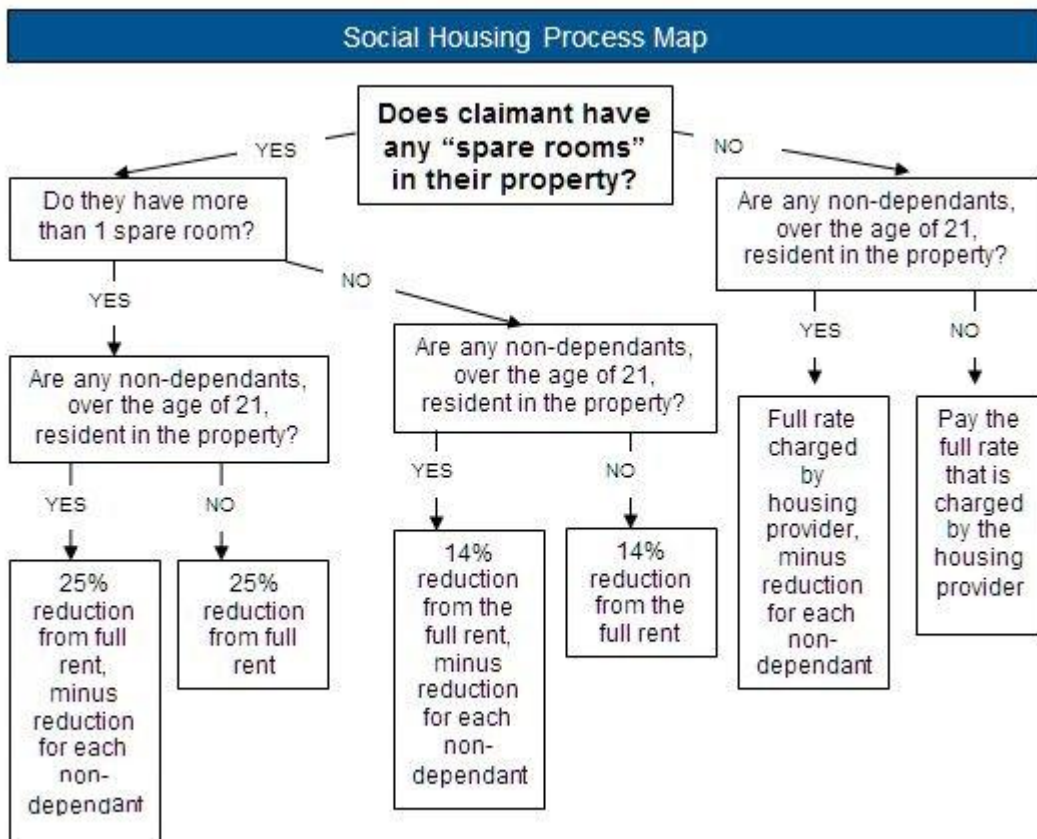

These are usually provided through housing associations. A share of the home's value, usually between 25% and 75%, is purchased and rent is paid on the remainder.

For more information, see Shared ownership

Social Rented Sector

The Social Rented Sector payment calculation is detailed in this diagram below:

Social Housing Process Map

Under 35 rules

In the private rented sector, single, childless claimants under the age of 35 are paid a shared accommodation rate within the housing costs which at a lower rate of the Local Housing Allowance. If they fall into an exemption group, a one bedroom rate will apply, even if they live in self-contained accommodation. For more information, see Under 35 rules

Use and Occupation agreement

If a claimant does not have a rental agreement with the landlord but has been given permission to occupy the property by the landlord, any payments made by the claimant can be considered to be “rent payments”

A Use and Occupancy agreement is an arrangement made between the landlord and the occupant of the property to meet a specific situation. It allows someone to occupy and pay rent for accommodation without a formal landlord-tenant agreement.

Associated housing guidance

Alternative payment arrangements

Where claimants have difficulty managing their Universal Credit payments, alternative arrangements can be made. ‘Managed payments to landlords’ are available to send payment direct to the landlord of a property.

For more information see Personal Budgeting Support and Alternative Payment Arrangements and Factors to consider for Alternative Payment Arrangements

Local Council Tax Reduction is a discount on the domestic household charge, administered by local authorities.

For more information see Council Tax