I live in Belfast. I believe the law on abortion should not be changed. Because of our existing law it is widely estimated that approx 100,000 lives have been saved. In the rest of the UK there have been almost 9 million abortions since 1967 – each one a unique life (as any pregnant woman will testify. Hence the anguish of a miscarriage)

Most abortions are carried out solely for social reasons or for personal convenience.

Please leave our law unchanged respecting the frequently democratically expressed will of the people
