Since the 1967 abortion Act was introduced almost 9 million abortions have been carried out, far more that envisaged when the Act was introduced.

In 2016, 98% of abortions were carried out for social reasons, not for purely medical reasons.

Northern Ireland’s current law should be left as it is, Westminster shouldn’t interfere with what is devolved matter and one that was voted on by publicly elected representatives in February 2016.

Abortion has scientifically been shown to be the murder of a living and feeling human being, this is the greatest of all atrocities carried out in the modern era.
