I am a resident of Northern Ireland. The law as it stands must not be changed by Westminster, otherwise devolution will be undermined. Our elected representatives must be allowed to do their job without interference. Hopefully, the Stormont executive will be restored in the near future and our MLAs can then vote on important issues like abortion. It is estimated that 100,000 people are alive today in Northern Ireland because of the existing law – 100,000 reasons to leave the law alone.
