NI pro-life laws

As a person who lives in N. Ireland, I am pleased that we have pro-life laws here. Every baby has a right to live. Nobody should have a right to murder a baby, it is a human being from the minute of conception. It is made in the image of God its creator.

N Ireland has pro life laws, and its law should be respected. Westminster should not have the right to imposes murder on the babies of the people of N. Ireland. All babies have the right to life. Doctors on their graduation take an oath that they will do all the preserve the life of a person, so why should they be made now to take away a life.

Since 2016, the majority of abortions in GB were carried out for social reason not that they was any medical reason.

Please do not seek to force to change our law against the wishes of our elected representatives.

A baby is a human being and has a right to live.

If a mother does not want her baby, then she can give it up for adoption to parents which will want it and love it, not get it murdered in the womb.

Please do not change our laws.
