Written submission from Nicholas Sykes (ANI0161)

I am resident in the Cayman Islands though currently outside the Islands. I agree that just as such matters should be devolved to the people and institutions of the Cayman Islands so should this matter be entirely devolved to the people and institutions of Northern Ireland, and not in any respect considered to be subject to pressures from any central UK entity. This is an ethical and moral issue which requires the insights and decisions of the N. Ireland people themselves, just as in the case of such issues in Cayman and other Overseas Territories.
