Written submission from William Wright (ANI0325)

I am responding as an individual to your consultation on the provision of abortion services in Northern Ireland. I live in Northern Ireland and have worked in the NHS for more than a decade. I am against changing the law to allow more medically induced abortions to occur here.

The UN and the UK Government should both be doing their best to protect vulnerable people in society. The most vulnerable people are those who can't help themselves, and the unborn child falls into that category. Therefore, we should be doing all we can to protect their lives. There are literally tens of thousands of people in Northern Ireland who would not be alive today if they had lost their protection in the womb, by the introduction of the 1967 Abortion Act in Northern Ireland. Please keep protecting these vulnerable unborn children.
