I live in Northern Ireland, which, until recently has had its own devolved government. We therefore, have a democratic voice which decided, in a vote in 2016, to maintain our laws protecting the lives of our unborn children.

Our democratic right to make this choice for ourselves cannot, therefore, be circumvented or disrespected by Westminster or individuals within Westminster, with their own agendas! It is imperative that our democracy is upheld. We have the right to protect the most vulnerable people within our society and Westminster does not have the right to take that away from us!

It is for the rest of the U.K. To make their own decisions regarding this, but do not presume to lecture us and dictate our laws.
