1) DEVOLUTION
Northern Ireland is not represented on this committee and it is important that people in Northern Ireland get to make the laws that affect them. Westminster can not impose laws on the people of Northern Ireland. This is a devolved issue and meds to be dealt with by our devolved government, when they are back in session.

2) DISTINCTIVE LAW AND CULTURE
The law in Northern Ireland protects the rights of all unborn children and protects those who have been identified as having extra needs. These lives need to be protected and celebrated. The law in Northern Ireland saves lives and should not be changed. These lives matter.

3) HUMAN RIGHTS & EQUALITY
Equality for women does not mean giving them the right the end the life of an unborn child. The unborn child should has a right to life and protection. Women who find themselves in difficult circumstances need support and should not be forced by medical professionals to make a life-changing decision which will affect them and their child. Abortion should never be used because of gender or inconvenience of a pregnancy.
