Equal representation of women and men in Parliament and other aspects of government is a crucially important goal for our society. There is still a long way to go, but please don’t make it worse.

September 2016