Introduction

The Freedom of Information Act 2000 (“FoI Act”) and the associated Environmental Information Regulations 2004 (“EIRs”) came fully into force on 1 January 2005. This bulletin covers the period July to September 2007 and presents the eleventh quarterly set of statistics on their implementation within central government.

The previous quarterly bulletins, together covering the period from January 2005 to June 2007, are available via the links on the following pages of the Freedom of Information and Ministry of Justice websites:

<http://www.justice.gov.uk/publications/freedomofinformationquarterly.htm>

<http://www.foi.gov.uk/reference/statisticsAndReports.htm>

The statistics in this bulletin relate to the handling of written requests for information received by monitored bodies during the relevant time period. They cover only “non-routine” information requests, and information given out on request as a part of routine business should not be counted. Appendix A gives a definition of a “non-routine” request, and other information on the scope of these statistics.

This bulletin presents monitoring statistics for a total of 42 central government bodies, including all major departments of state. Appendix B gives a full list of monitored bodies.

Q3: July - September

Executive Summary

Departments of State reported receiving 3,883 “non-routine” information requests during the third quarter of 2007 (Q3). Other monitored bodies received 3,697 requests. Across all monitored bodies, a total of 7,580 requests were received, of which 93 per cent had been processed at the time of monitoring. This includes 134 requests handled under the amended Environmental Information Regulations (EIRs) which came into force on 1 January 2005. [see Table 1]

The 7,580 requests across all monitored bodies received in the third quarter of 2007 is 8 per cent fewer than the 8,209 received during the corresponding quarter of 2006, and is the lowest quarterly total since the implementation of the Freedom of Information Act. [see Table A]

During Q3 of 2007, 92 per cent of all monitored bodies’ requests (excluding those “on hold” or lapsed) were “in time”, in that they were processed within the statutory deadline* or were subject to a permitted deadline extension. This figure is slightly higher than in the previous three quarters, but a little lower than in the corresponding quarter of 2006. [see Table 2 and Table B]

Of all “resolvable” requests received during Q3 of 2007 (i.e. requests where it was possible to make a substantive decision on whether to release the information being sought), 58 per cent were granted in full, which was 3 percentage points lower than in the previous quarter. [see Table 3 and Table C]

Commentary

Number of requests [see Table 1 and Table A]

Departments of State reported receiving a total of 3,883 information requests under the Freedom of Information Act and the associated Environmental Information Regulations during the quarter from 1 July to 30 September 2007 (Q3). Other monitored bodies reported having received 3,697 requests. Across all monitored bodies, a total of 7,580 requests were reported.

This overall total for Q3 of 2007 is 8 per cent fewer in the corresponding quarter last year (i.e. Q3 of 2006), and is the lowest quarterly total recorded since the implementation of the Act. The number of requests received by Departments of State fell by 7 per cent compared to the same period last year, while the total received by other monitored bodies fell by 9 per cent. Departments of State accounted for 51 per cent of all requests received by monitored bodies in Q3 of 2007.

Q3: July - September

Figure 1 shows that there have been noticeable “jumps” in the total number of requests received in the first quarters of 2006 and 2007 (there was also a large number of requests in Q1 of 2005, although this was immediately following the Act’s implementation and is therefore unlikely to be representative). This suggests that there may be a seasonal pattern to information requests. With only eleven quarters’ data available currently, however, it is not yet possible to be definitive on this point.

Of the Departments of State, the Ministry of Defence reported having received 667 requests during Q3, the highest departmental total. This was 38 per cent more than the Department for Transport, whose total of 482 requests was the next highest. It should be noted that both departments’ figures include requests received by some of their agencies (see Appendix B). The Ministry of Justice (455) and the Home Office (417) were the other departments to receive more than 400 requests in Q3.

Among other monitored bodies, the Health and Safety Executive reported having received 1,531 requests during Q3, while the National Archives received 1,026. These are the only monitored bodies to have received more than 1,000 requests during each quarter since the Act was implemented.

Monitoring statistics also show the number of non-routine information requests that fell fully or mostly under the Environmental Information Regulations (EIRs). There were 134 such requests during the third quarter of 2007, accounting for 1.8 per cent of all requests received. The monitored bodies with the highest numbers of requests falling under the EIRs were the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs with 39 requests, Communities and Local Government with 29 requests and the Rural Payments Agency with 26 requests.

Status of requests at time of monitoring [see Table 1]

A large majority of requests (93 per cent) received during Q3 had been processed by the time monitoring information was collected. Of the 546 requests that were still being processed by the monitored bodies, 71 (13 per cent) were reported as “on hold” or “lapsed” because a fee had been charged but no payment had been received. These requests are effectively in suspension, since public authorities are not obliged to respond until the fee has been paid.

2007

Q3: July - September

Timeliness of response to requests [see Table 2 and Table B]

The FoI Act requires public bodies to respond to written requests for information within 20 working days of receipt (with limited exceptions, for example to allow additional time for the consideration of public interest). Across all monitored bodies, 85 per cent of requests received during Q3 of 2007 were sent a response within this standard deadline. Ninety-two per cent of requests received during Q3 were “in time”, in that they either received a response within the standard deadline or were subject to a permitted deadline extension. Both of these measures are the marginally higher than in the previous quarter, but slightly lower than the corresponding figures for the equivalent quarter last year.

Figure 2: Percentage of FoI requests processed “in time” by Departments of State and other monitored bodies, quarterly from Q3 2005.

Although the standard statutory deadline for response to a FoI request is 20 working days, a 30 working day deadline applies where requests relate wholly or partly to information transferred to the National Archives, which has provided response timeliness information on this basis.

2007

Q3: July - September

Initial outcomes of requests [see Table 3 and Table C]

Of the 7,580 requests reported during Q3 of 2007 across all monitored bodies, 71 were “on hold” awaiting a fee payment. In addition, a further 1,265 requests sought information that was not held, and 480 were responded to with “advice and assistance” because the body handling the request needed further information in order to identify the information being sought. As a result, the remaining 5,764 requests were assumed to be “resolvable”, in that it would have been possible to give a substantive decision on whether to release the information being sought.

Of the “resolvable” requests received during Q3, 58 per cent were granted in full, 13 per cent were withheld in part, and 21 per cent were withheld in full at the time of monitoring. The remaining 8 per cent had not yet received a substantive response.

The proportion of “resolvable” requests granted in full in Q3, 58 per cent, was lower than in the previous quarter (61 per cent). The proportion of requests in Q3 that were fully withheld, 21 per cent, was slightly higher than in the previous quarter.

2007

Q3: July - September

Use of exemptions and exceptions [see Table 4]

Under the FoI Act, a public authority can only refuse to provide requested information that it holds if:

- The request is considered vexatious or repeated
- The cost of compliance would exceed the appropriate limit
- The information falls in one or more of the categories of exempt information (“exemptions”) listed in Part II of the Act.

There are similar arrangements that apply to certain types of information under the EIRs. These list a number of “exceptions to the duty to disclose environmental information” in Part 3 of the Regulations.

Across all monitored bodies, a total of 1,576 requests were reported as having one or more of these exemptions or exceptions applied to them during Q3. This quarterly total is markedly higher than it was prior to Q3 of 2006 because it now includes data on exemption usage by the Health and Safety Executive, which was not previously available.

Figure 4: Number of exemptions and exceptions applied by Departments of State and other monitored bodies on requests received in Q3 2007.

Q3: July - September

The most commonly applied exemptions or exceptions in Q3 were those listed at Section 40 of the FoI Act (relating to personal information), which was applied to 572 requests, Section 30 (investigations and proceedings conducted by public authorities), which was applied to 248 requests, and Section 41 (information provided in confidence), which was applied to 193 requests.

Departmental name changes

Please refer to note 1 in Appendix B for full details of departmental name changes that have occurred since Q3 2005, the period covered by the tables in this bulletin.

Notes

1 - Monitoring returns were submitted to the Ministry of Justice during the first two weeks of August 2007.

2 - Requests "on hold" are those where a fee has been charged but no payment has been received at the time of monitoring. These requests are effectively suspended since public authorities are not obliged to respond until payment has been made.

Where a fee is charged and the deadline for payment expires, the request is deemed to have "lapsed" as no further action is required from the public authority.

3 - The amended Environmental Information Regulations 2004 (EIRs) came into force on 1 January 2005 to coincide with the FoI Act. For further information on the EIRs, see the main Notes section of this publication.

Notes

* - These percentages are not shown because the number of qualifying requests is 20 or fewer.

- Figures supplied by these departments of state count non-routine information requests received by one or more of their agencies, as well those received by the departments themselves. Appendix B gives full details.

^ - Although the standard statutory deadline for responding to an information request is 20 working days, a 30-day deadline applies where requests relate wholly or partly to archived information. The National Archives' timeliness figures are therefore reported on this basis.

1 - Requests "on hold" or "lapsed" are those where a fee has been charged but no payment has been received. These requests are effectively suspended since public authorities are not obliged to respond until payment has been made. They are therefore excluded from the calculation of timeliness measures.

2 - "Permitted extensions" include:

Requests where the 20-day deadline for response under the Freedom of Information Act is extended to allow for consideration of the balance of the public interest.

Requests where the 20-day deadline for response under the Environmental Information Regulations is extended because of the complexity or volume of the request.

Notes

* - These percentages are not shown because the number of qualifying requests is 20 or fewer.

- Figures supplied by these departments of state count non-routine information requests received by one or more of their agencies, as well those received by the departments themselves. Appendix B gives full details.

1 - Requests "on hold" or "lapsed" are those where a fee has been charged but no payment has been received. These requests are effectively suspended since public authorities are not obliged to respond until payment has been made.

2 - "Advice and Assistance" would be provided to a requester when the government body "reasonably requires further information in order to identify and locate the information requested". See section 1(3) of the Freedom of Information Act for full

3 - "Resolvable requests" are all those where it is possible to make a substantive decision on whether to release the requested information. They exclude requests which are lapsed or "on-hold", where the information was not held, and where it was not possible to provide advice and assistance (see note above) since in each of these cases it would not have been possible to resolve the request in the form it was asked.

4 - "Fully withheld" requests include those which were refused because it was estimated that the cost of complying with the request would exceed the appropriate limit.

5 - This table counts as "resolvable" all requests where a response has not yet been provided. This assumption is likely to be generally true but may be incorrect in a small number of cases.

It should also be noted that requests where a response has not yet been provided are more likely to involve considerations which are complex and finely balanced. As a result, it cannot be assumed that these requests will be granted and refused in proportions as "resolvable" requests in general.

Notes

* - A full list of monitored bodies is shown in Appendix B. This also includes details of those departments of state whose figures included non-routine information requests received by one or more of their agencies, as well those received by the departments themselves.

1 - "Exemptions" refers to the provisions in Part 2 of the Freedom of Information Act (and the similar "exceptions" in Part 3 of the Environmental Information Regulations) which classify certain types of information as exempt from the release obligations. More than one exemption or exception can apply to a single information request.

2 - The exemption described in section 21 of the Act ("Information accessible ... by other means") is not listed here, because requests falling under this exemption do not meet the formal definition of a "non-routine" request and therefore are not counted in these monitoring statistics.

3 - The exemption listed at section 39 of the Freedom of Information Act ("Environmental Information") effectively states that information requests which fall within the scope of the Environmental Information Regulations (EIRs) should be handled as these Regulations specify. Requests for environmental information which are refused should apply one of the EIR exceptions listed above.

- Figures supplied by these departments of state count non-routine information requests received by one or more of their agencies, as well those received by the departments themselves. Appendix B gives full details.

* - These percentages are not shown because the number of qualifying requests is 20 or fewer.

^ - Figures up to and including Q1 2007 are for the Department for Constitutional Affairs.

+ - Although the standard statutory deadline for responding to an information request is 20 working days, a 30-day deadline applies where requests relate wholly or partly to archived information. The National Archives' timeliness figures are therefore reported on this basis.

Notes

A request is "in time" if it was answered within the statutory response deadline, or within a permitted extension to this deadline.

Permitted extensions include:

Requests where the 20-day deadline for response under the Freedom of Information Act is extended to allow for consideration of the balance of the public interest.

Requests where the 20-day deadline for response under the Environmental Information Regulations is extended because of the complexity or volume of the request.

Requests "on hold" or "lapsed" are those where a fee has been charged but no payment has been received. These requests are effectively suspended since public authorities are not obliged to respond until payment has been made. They are therefore excluded from this calculation.

Notes

"Resolvable requests" are all those where it would have been possible to provide a substantive response. They exclude requests which are lapsed or "on-hold", where the information was not held, and where it was necessary to provide advice and assistance to the requester, since in each of these cases it would not have been possible to resolve the request in the form it was asked.

Notes

1. The statistics in this bulletin relate to the handling by central government bodies of information requests received under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 (Fol Act) and the Environmental Information Regulations 2004 (EIRs). They are collected and published by Ministry of Justice (MoJ), with assistance from Freedom of Information officers across central government.
2. The Fol Act received Royal Assent on 30 November 2000. Under the Act, anybody may request information from a public authority which has functions in England, Wales and/or Northern Ireland. The Act confers two statutory rights on applicants:
 - To be told whether or not the public authority holds that information; and if so,
 - To have that information communicated to them.

These statutory rights came into force on 1 January 2005. The MoJ is the lead department responsible for the Fol Act. Further information is available at:

<http://www.foi.gov.uk/index.htm>

3. The (amended) EIRs also came into force on 1 January 2005, to coincide with the Fol Act. They clarify and extend previous rights to environmental information held by public authorities. The Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (Defra) is the lead department responsible for the EIRs. Further information is available from their website at:

<http://www.defra.gov.uk/corporate/opengov/eir/index.htm>

4. These statistics are derived from monitoring returns submitted to MoJ in November 2007. They relate to information requests received during the period 1 July to 30 September 2007. The collection of monitoring data began on the 21st working day after the last day of this period (i.e. on 29 October 2007), since 20 working days is the statutory deadline for public authorities to respond to information requests under both the Fol Act and the EIRs. The large majority of data were received during the middle two weeks of November 2007.
5. Only “non-routine” information requests are counted in these statistics. Important notes on the scope and consistency of these statistics are given in Appendix A.
6. These statistics cover a total of 42 central government bodies. At the commencement of the Act in January 2005 there were 43 bodies covered by the monitoring statistics, but the precise number can change from time to time due to “Machinery of Government” changes. A full list of the monitored bodies in Q3 2007 is shown in Appendix B.
7. This is the eleventh quarterly statistical bulletin on the implementation of the Fol Act. This publication has been prepared jointly by the Economics and Statistics Division and the Information Rights Division of the Ministry of Justice. Please note that press enquires on the implementation of the Freedom of Information Act in a particular government body should be addressed to that body's Press Office.

General press enquiries on the contents of this bulletin should be directed to Sandra Smith-Hughes in the MoJ press office: Tel: 020 7210 8692

Appendix A – Important note on the scope and consistency of the statistics

Defining the scope of Freedom of Information monitoring

Section 1 of the Freedom of Information Act 2000 (FoI) states that (subject to certain conditions):

“Any person making a request for information to a public authority is entitled—

(a) to be informed in writing by the public authority whether it holds information of the description specified in the request, and

(b) if that is the case, to have that information communicated to him”

Regulation 5 of the Environmental Information Regulations 2004 states that (subject to certain conditions):

“A public authority that holds environmental information shall make it available on request.”

Following their introduction on 1 January 2005, the above provisions apply to all relevant requests for information made to public authorities, no matter how routine and straightforward they may be.

Government departments supply large amounts of information, both on request and proactively, as an established and routine part of their business. This includes information released in the form of leaflets, correspondence exchanges, reports and other published material, and through websites and departmental FoI Publication Schemes. All information released on request is covered by the Freedom of Information Act. However, it would be both uninformative and fundamentally unfeasible to count all such activity in departmental Freedom of Information monitoring returns.

The statistics in this bulletin therefore relate only to the “non-routine” information requests that government departments have received. Essentially, this means that departments’ statistics should only count those requests where:

1. it was necessary to take a considered view on how to handle the request under the terms of the Freedom of Information Act, and
2. departmental Freedom of Information officer(s) were informed of the request and logged it in their case management systems.

Defining a request

The full definition of an “information request” for the purposes of inclusion the Ministry of Justice’s monitoring returns is shown below. This definition was circulated to members of the central government “Freedom of Information Practitioners’ Group” in November 2004.

“[An information request for monitoring purposes is one ...]

1. *Which meets the criteria in section 8 of the Freedom of Information Act and if the request falls under the Environmental Information Regulations it includes requests made in any form or context, including oral requests; and
2. *Which is a request for information that is not already reasonably accessible to the applicant by other means; and
 - (i) *Which results in the release of one or more documents (in any media) or inclusion of extracts of documents in the information released; or
 - (ii) *Results in information being withheld under an exemption or exception from the right of access (either the Freedom of Information Act or the Environmental Information Regulations); or
 - (iii) *The request is not processed because the department estimates the cost of complying would exceed the appropriate limit in accordance with section 12 of the Freedom of Information Act; or
 - (iv) *The request is not processed because the department is relying on the provisions of section 14 of the Freedom of Information Act; or
 - (v) Where a search is made for information sought in the request and it is found that none is held.”

Consistency of the statistics

It is necessary to apply a definition of this sort in order to set a clear boundary to the coverage of our monitoring, and thereby obtain meaningful information from the process. The definition shown above has been widely disseminated to Freedom of Information officers in government and we have tried to ensure that it is applied consistently across all monitored bodies.

However, there is considerable variation in the way these bodies are structured and managed, and in the mechanisms that they have put in place to meet their obligations under the Freedom of Information Act. For example, some bodies operate a centralised Freedom of Information secretariat that co-ordinates responses to all information requests received. Others give a greater degree of autonomy to individual work areas in the handling of information requests.

As a result of these differences, there is likely to be a degree of inconsistency in the way in which bodies have interpreted and applied the definition of an “information request” for monitoring purposes. Although we cannot estimate the extent or effect of the likely inconsistency, it is very important to bear in mind when using the figures in this bulletin, particularly when comparing statistics for individual bodies.

In summary, it is important to note that:

- i) These statistics only cover “non-routine” information requests, and do not give a representative picture of all requests for information received in government.

- ii) There is likely to be a degree of inconsistency between monitored bodies’ interpretations of the definition of an “information request” for monitoring purposes. This should be borne in mind when using these statistics.

Appendix B – Government bodies included in these statistics

The statistics in this bulletin have been derived from monitoring returns completed by Freedom of Information officers in government departments during August 2007. This is the third set of Freedom of Information statistics to be published by the Ministry of Justice (MoJ), the government department which now has lead responsibility for the Freedom of Information Act 2000. The first eight bulletins in this series were published by the Department for Constitutional Affairs.

The formal monitoring work covers a total of 42 government bodies, including all major departments of state (i.e. Ministerial departments).

The monitored bodies which are not departments of state nonetheless have significant policymaking, regulatory or information-handling functions. As far as possible, this list includes major non-Ministerial Government Departments (NMGDs) and excludes Executive Agencies, although these classifications are not mutually exclusive and periodic “Machinery of Government” changes make it difficult to define the list precisely.

Coverage within the UK

The Freedom of Information Act 2000 applies in England, Wales and Northern Ireland. The Northern Ireland Office and the Wales Office are included in these statistics. However, we have not collected formal monitoring data from the National Assembly for Wales, or from the bodies that make up the Northern Ireland Civil Service.

The Freedom of Information (Scotland) Act 2002 applies in Scotland. This legislation lies outside the scope of the monitoring work on which this bulletin is based. However, the Scotland Office has been included here because, although it deals with matters relating to Scotland, it is based in England and hence falls under the scope of the Freedom of Information Act 2000 rather than the corresponding Scottish legislation.

The following is a full list of the bodies covered by the monitoring statistics in the third quarter of 2007.

Notes

1. The following departmental changes occurred between the beginning of July 2005 and the end of September 2007, the period covered by the in-year performance and volume tables (Tables A, B and C) in this bulletin.

The Legal Secretariat to the Law Officers was renamed as the Attorney General's Office from 2 June 2006, although its substantive responsibilities remained unchanged.

The Office of the Deputy Prime Minister (ODPM) was superseded from 7 May 2006 by Communities and Local Government (CLG), which inherited the major part of its responsibilities. FoI requests relating to the Deputy Prime Minister and his work have been handled as follows in these statistics. All requests received by the ODPM prior to 7 May 2006, and requests relating to the work of CLG since that date are counted under Communities and Local Government. Requests relating to the Deputy Prime Minister received between 7 May 2006 and 28 June 2007 are counted against the Deputy Prime Minister's Office (DPMO). The DPMO was abolished on 28 June 2007.

On 2 April 2007, the functions of the Privy Council Office (PCO) were split between the Cabinet Office and the Department for Constitutional Affairs (now the Ministry of Justice). No separate monitoring statistics have therefore been collected for the PCO from Q2 of 2007 onwards.

On 9 May 2007, the Ministry of Justice (MoJ) was created, assuming the responsibilities of the former Department for Constitutional Affairs (DCA), as well as the National Offender Management Service (NOMS) and the Office for Criminal Justice Reform (OCJR) from the Home Office. The statistics for MoJ comprise information requests received by the DCA prior to 9 May and requests received by all parts of MoJ since that date. Information requests received by NOMS and OCJR prior to the transfer of responsibilities on 9 May have been counted under the Home Office, of which they were a part at the time the request was initially received.

Three new departments of state were created on 28 June 2007. These were the Department for Children, Schools and Families (DCSF), the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills (DIUS), and the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (BERR). They replaced the Department for Education and Skills (DfES) and the Department of Trade and Industry (DTI). In the Q2 2007 statistics, information requests received by DCSF and DIUS on 28 and 29 June, the last two working days of the quarter, were counted under the figures for DfES. Requests to BERR on these last two days of Q2 were counted under the figures for DTI. The three new departments are separately identified in the statistics for the latest quarter.

2. Cabinet Office figures include requests that were addressed to 10 Downing Street.
3. The figures provided by a number of Departments of State count the non-routine information requests received by one or more of their agencies, as well those received by the departments themselves. The departments and agencies affected are shown below.

The latter agency was absorbed within the Identity and Passport Service from 1 April 2006. Previously-supplied figures for the year 2005 (as reported in tables A, B and C) only include requests received by the Home Office itself.
