Amendment Regulations 2000 introduced a statutory procedure for deciding whether a product is a "relevant medicinal product" when the licensing authority gives notice that it "is minded" to make a provisional determination that a product is a "relevant medicinal product". The statutory procedure provides an option to a company to seek review of a provisional determination by the Independent Review Panel ('the Panel'). Notes	The Independent Panel was originally set up by Sir Nigel Crisp, former Permanent Secretary (DH) and NHS Chief Executive. The Panel was chaired by Trevor Phillips (Commission for Racial Equality) who resigned in April last year to take up position as the new Chair of the Commission for Equality and Human Rights. The Department has loans with DCI in the US arranged at arms length and receives interest on these loans. A commercial debt/equity split was structured as part of the original acquisition.
